The Fall Army Worm.

The terrible destruction of the Fall Army Worm to wheat, rye and alfalfa a year ago is still fresh in the minds of many Missouri farmers. The fear that the pest will reappear again this fall has led many to inquire concerning the pest. There is little that can be done to control this pest but this must be done in time. It is already appearing in some sections and one should be ready to do what he can to check it.

The pest passes the winter in the ground in the chrysalis or resting stage. From these the moth appears in the spring to deposit eggs for a spring brood of worms. These mature normally by September when the destructive fall brood appears to devour wheat, rye, alfalfa and other green crops. The spring and summer broods are of little importance but the fall brood is extremely destructive when natural conditions are favorable. The cold winter greatly reduced the pest and the summer has been favorable for its enemies so that until recently it has not been able to increase greatly. Fall rains bring out the grass, alfalfa, wheat and other crops and provide plenty of young green food for the pest and the cool weather checks its enemies. This favorable change will probably enable it to cause considerable trouble before frost.

REMEDIES.

The fall army worm, like the chinch bug and Hessian fly, is not troublesome every year. Natural conditions keep it in check. It is seldom extremely destructive two years in succession though this is possible. To protect wheat and rye one should plan on sowing just as late as possible as the parent moth usually arrives by early September and if no wheat or rye is up it must deposit on other crops of less importance. Once the pest is in wheat, rye or alfalfa some relief can be gotten by using a heavy roller or a weighted brush. If the ground is dry and fairly firm many will be destroyed in this way. Last year we had so much rain that relief was almost out of the question. This pest does not migrate rapidly like the true army worm. It first appears in patches and if one is watchful he can often stamp it out in such patches by the use of poison or other means and thus keep it from destroying the entire crop. Hogs, poultry and birds are also helpful in destroying the caterpillar.

Data recently collected indicates that where fields of wheat, rye and alfalfa were completely stripped last fall the crops were a complete failure.

Oh, How I Itched!

What long nerve-racking days of constant torture—what sleepless nights of terrible agony—itch—itch—itch, constant itch, until it seemed that I must tear off my very skin—then—Instant relief—my skin cooled, soothed and healed!

The very first drops of D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema stopped that awful itch instantly; yes, the very moment D.D.D. touched the burning skin the torture ceased. A 25c bottle proves it. D.D.D. has been known for years as the only absolutely reliable eczema remedy, for it washes away the disease germs and leaves the skin as clear and healthy as that of a child.

All other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute. But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee—If you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.
